GENE SARAZEN'S GOLF RECORD.

Wins British Open with Amazing Score.

HAGEN ECLIPSED.

Arthur Havers' Opportunity Allowed to Slide.

Sandwich, Yesterday.

After innumerable efforts to win the British Open Golf Championship Gene Sarazen has at last achieved his ambition. In one of the most interesting struggles witnessed in recent years he returned an aggregate score of 283, two below Walter Hagen's record score of 285 which was returned on the St. Andrew's course in the 1927 competition.

At the end of the third round Sarazen had the amazing figures of 209, the lowest aggregate score ever to be returned in three championship rounds. Taking 74 in his last round Sarazen easily beat Hagen's record aggregate score of 285, which was performed on the St. Andrew's course in 1927. Playing before a gallery of 5,000 during his last round Sarazen was not, however, seen at his best, and had there not been such a large gallery, even more amazing figures might have been returned.

Arthur Havers, the brilliant young Englishman playing before a large gallery which included H.R.H. the Prince of Wales gave rise to British hopes when he broke the course record with a sparkling round for 68. His figures were (out) 4, 4, 2, 4, 3, 4, 4, 4, 4=33 (in) 3, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 5, 4=35. As the result of this round he returned an aggregate score of 213—four strokes behind the American. With Sarazen returning a 74 in his fourth round, Havers required a 69 to win and a 70 to tie with the American. The moment, however, was too big for him and he collapsed badly, returning his worst card—a 76.

The following were the final placings of the leading players:—

Sarazen (U.S.A.)

STATE OF EMERGENCY IN SHANGHAI.

NEW SOVIET STATE INTERNAL LOAN

Fourth Conclusive Year Of Five Year Plan.

YORKSHIRE COME INTO THEIR OWN

MITCHELL AND BOWES BEAT GLOUCESTER

THRILLING FINISH WITNESSED ON THE EDGBASTON GROUND.

FIVE BATSMEN REACH 90'S

London, Yesterday.

Yorkshire showed definite signs of a long-awaited improvement when they beat Gloucestershire at Bristol by the large margin of an innings and 95 runs. Lancashire were unable to check the advance of Hampshire trough they collected major points at Manchester. Derbyshire received a set-back at the Oval where they fell before Surrey by 199 runs. Northants are maintaining their improved form, Essex being forced to concede points at Northampton. Probably the most exciting match was witnessed at Edgbaston where Warwickshire with one wicket in hand required but 14 runs for victory over Middlesex.

Three centuries were registered in the championship matches—Mitchell (Yorkshire) hitting up 140, Ernest Tyldesley (Lancashire) 122 not out, and R. E. S. Wyatt, the Warwickshire skipper, 103 not out. Nigel Haig, the Middlesex captain, had the misfortune to miss three-figures by four runs, whilst Timms (Northants) scored 97 and Croom (Warwick) 90. Bowes, the Yorkshire fast bowler, returned the good figures of 10 wickets for 105 runs against Gloucester, whilst Herman (Hants) took 6 Lancashire wickets for 83 runs.

Thanks to excellent bowling by Amur Singh (11 for 100) and an innings for 96 by S. H. M. Colah, the All-India eleven defeated Cambridge University by nine wickets, Kent found the Nawab of Pataudi in good form but with Frank Woolley rattling up 97 and Hardinge capturing 7 wickets for 64 runs, Kent beat the M.C.C. by ten wickets.

BRITAIN AND THE DAVIS CUP.

Perry and Lee Win Against Poland.

POLISH PLAYER'S ONSLAUGHTS CHECKED.

U.S.A. and Japan Win.

Warsaw, Yesterday.

Great Britain are in a winning position in their Third Round encounter against Poland in the European Zone of the Davis Cup. To-day both Lee and Perry won their singles matches to give Britain a lead of two matches to love.

H. G. N. Lee was taking no chances in his game against Stolarow and won comfortably in straight sets. The Polish player was most aggressive in the first set and had he been a little steadier he might quite easily have established an early advantage. Lee, however, had the match well in hand during the remaining sets. Perry experienced great difficulty in his first two sets against Tloczynski, who displayed his best form of the season in a gruelling match which left him visibly tiring in the third set. The Pole played like a champion at the commencement and only Perry's determination and nonchalance saved the day. Time and again he left Perry standing with dazzling cross court drives which brought down the gallery. Should he display the same form against Lee in the second singles

THE SUNKEN LINER EGYPT.

Treasure Room Reached at Last.

AFTER YEARS OF DISAPPOINTMENT AND DANGER.

15,000 Rupees Recovered.

Brest, Yesterday.

After years of disappointment and danger to Italian divers, the salvage ship Artiglio has succeeded in penetrating the treasure room of the sunken liner Egypt.

The ceiling of the strong room was blown out yesterday by means of chain bombs placed in position by four divers.

A case containing a packet of notes to the value of 15,000 rupees was first to be recovered, and work is proceeding.—Reuter.

ANGLO-IRISH PARLEY FAILS.

Prolonged Discussion But No Agreement.

FAILURE NOT SURPRISING.

Excellent Good Humour, Says Mr. Thomas.

London, Yesterday.

Consultations between representatives of the British and Irish Free State Governments, which were begun in Dublin on Tuesday, and concluded in London to-day, failed to solve the difficulties which have arisen regarding negotiations connected with the Ottawa Economic Conference.

A communique which was issued after the Conference had dispersed at about 5 o'clock was follows:

"A meeting took place between the President and Vice-President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, Mr. De Valera and Mr. Sean O'Kelly, and the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, the Lord President of Council Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Home Secretary, Sir Herbert Samuel, the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, and the Minister of War Lord Hailsham, at No. 10, Downing Street at 11.30 a.m.

"The meeting was adjourned at 1.30 p.m. and resumed one hour later.

"There was prolonged discussion of the points at issue, but it was not found possible to reach an agreement."

In view of the attitude adopted by Mr. De Valera and his Ministers on the Oath of Allegiance Bill, now before the Free State Legislature, the failure of the Conference has caused very little surprise in political circles here.

The Dominions Secretary was present at Euston Station, later, when Mr. De Valera left on his return to Dublin.

Mr. Thomas told the Press that the Conference had passed off quietly and the questions before them discussed with excellent good humour.—British Wireless Service.

HUNGER MARCHERS PACIFIED.

Bill for $125,000 to Feed Them.

Washington, Yesterday.

A Bill authorising the appropriation of $125,000 to provide for the feeding of the Bonus Army now encamped upon the banks of the Potomac has been presented in the House of Representatives.

When news of the proposed Bill reached Thomas Jerry Sandford, the War Veterans' marched to the Capitol and made demonstration.

Their numbers are increasing hourly and it is estimated that there are now over 15,000 hunger marchers in the District of Columbia.

LINDBERGH KIDNAPPING SEQUEL

MRS. MORROW'S MAID COMMITS SUICIDE

POLICE SAY SHE HAD GUILTY KNOWLEDGE.

MISTRESS BELIEVES HER INNOCENT

Hackensacks, New Jersey, Yesterday.

The maid employed at the home of Col. Lindbergh's mother-in-law, at the time of the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, committed suicide by taking poison.

The maid had already been examined three times by the Police since the kidnapping, and was to have been re-examined to-day.

Her body was found in the pantry by the Butler.

SISTER UNDER SUSPICION.

The Police state that Edith, a sister of the dead maid, Violet Sharp, who is believed to be English left for England four days after Dr. Condon had handed over $50,000 to a mysterious intermediary.

The Police have requested Scotland Yard to interview the sister.

Colonel Schwarzkopf, who is in charge of the New Jersey investigations in connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping case, has made a statement that the suicide of the maid tended to confirm the suspicions of the investigating authorities that she had guilty knowledge of the kidnapping.

Suspicion of her was aroused by her conflicting statements as to her whereabouts on the night of the kidnapping; and she yesterday identified a photograph of Ernest Brinkert, her male companion on the night of the kidnapping.

The arrest of Brinkert, who has a criminal record, has been ordered.

MRS. MORROW BELIEVES IN MAID.

Mrs. Morrow believes that both Violet and Edith Sharp are innocent.—Reuter.

Mrs. Morrow, who is Col. Lindbergh's mother-in-law, is the widow of the late Senator Dwight Morrow.—Reuter's American Service.

later

Binkert has been arrested.

Kidnapped on March 1.

The Lindberghs's baby was kidnapped at 8 p.m. on March 1, and after over two months of negotiations (with the supposed kidnappers and the following up of numerous clues, the world was shocked on May 13 to learn that the baby was dead.

The skeleton of the baby, wrapped in clothing which were definitely identified as that of the Lindbergh's child, was found in a shallow grave in some bushes a little distance from the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, New Jersey.

The baby, blue-eyed, and like his father, blond-haired, was aged 20 months when kidnapped. Named Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Junior, (the name of his father), he was 2ft. 9in. in height, and was the idol of the nation.

Theory of Police.

Following the discovery of the skeleton, the Police were stated to be working on the theory that that the kidnappers might be traced through the accredited intermediaries who established contact with them, or else by means of the $50,000 in bank notes which was handed over to them on behalf of Col Lindbergh.

Gang Leader Surrenders.

Yesterday Reuter reported from Detroit that Harry Fleisher, the notorious leader of the Purple Gang, who had been sought for throughout the United States since the beginning of the Lindbergh kidnapping, had surrendered to the Police.

Second Maid Suspected.

The Lindberghs' own maid, engaged to take care of the kidnapped baby was Miss Gow, a Scottish girl. She and her "young man," the Lindberghs' chauffeur, came under suspicion following the kidnapping, but they were eventually exonerated from all blame.

While Miss Gow has been prominent in the news since the kidnapping of the baby, the dead girl, Violet Sharp, had not been heard of until now.

DRIVER FAILS TO STOP.

After Fatal Accident in Wanchai.

A KOWLOON SPILL.

Two motor accidents, one attended by fatality, were reported to the Police authorities yesterday.

A girl, Chan Lim-ho, aged 7 years, living at 48, Hennessy Road, after being knocked down by an unknown motor car, received injuries to her head and right foot, from which she died in the Government Civil Hospital, later. The driver of the car, which the Police are making every effort to track, failed to stop after the accident.

Lieut. H. B. Davidson, of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, quartered at Sham Shui Po Camp, reported that while driving in a car in Lai Chi Kok Road near Nam Cheung Street, he knocked down a shop coolie, Ho Sam (17), who suddenly emerged from the island in the centre of the road. The man sustained injuries to his arms and legs, and was sent to the Kowloon Hospital.

CHEN MAY GO TO MOSCOW.

Speculation on Relations with Soviet.

Shanghai, To-day.

The North China Daily News says that considerable speculation has been aroused in political circles by reports that Mr. Eugene Chen, if he is not appointed as Minister of Foreign Affairs, may go to Moscow as Chinese Ambassador there, when diplomatic relations are resumed.—Reuter.

HELVELLYN A WINNER IN EIGHTH RACE

WET COURSE MAY CAUSE MANY UPSETS AT HAPPY VALLEY

WOMBAT'S SELECTIONS FOR TO-DAY

Although nearly all the well-known ponies have been sent away for a rest until the re-start in September quite a few well-known ponies will be at Happy Valley this afternoon to contest the last race meeting of the first half of the season.

In my opinion the race for Australian ponies over a distance of one mile will be the "star turn" of the meeting, on account of the distribution of weight, which does great credit to our official Handicapper, Mr. C. M. Alves. The acceptors are headed by The Raindrop which won consistantly last season. She has a big handicap of 175 lbs to carry and although that does not entirely put her out of the race, in my opinion she will have to produce a wonderful performance to win.

Mr. A. A. R. Botelho who has been very successful in the novice class will in all probability score his final win in this class this afternoon, as Helvellyn is considered a certainty for his event.

The last event on the card is for ponies which have not recorded a win on the Hong Kong course and should end in an exciting finish.

My Selections are:—

1st Race:—
The Tiger.
Mike.
Little Beaver.

2nd Race:—
Gold Ring.
Cabinet Hall.
Snappy Eve.

3rd Race:—

SHARE MARKET.

Weekly Reports by Brokers.

G. A. HARRIMAN.

Hong Kong, June 10.

Mr. G. A. Harriman's weekly share report and market review issued at noon, states:—

The market has been rather quieter during the week under review with prices inclined to ease somewhat, but generally speaking the tendency remains more or less the same, i.e., quietly steady. In the speculative section Cements were done down to $18.35 cash and $18.50 July and $18.65 August but latterly were very hard to obtain at these figures, and appear to have reached bottom. Realties at one time dropped to $11.60 but closed in strong demand at $11.95 cash and $12.20 July. Lights remained more or less nominal at $20.75. Hotels weakened at one time to $11.90 cash and $12.15 July at which prices they were inclined to harden. In the investment section Trams weakened to $22.50 cash and $22.75 Settlement, but Lands were firmer at $78 cash and $79½ buyers for August.

The Sterling section was lifeless with a few Banks offering at $1,510, but Unions were sought for in small parcels at $445. The tone of the market is steady with an inclination to firmness.

Banks.—Hong Kong & Shanghai Banks were put through at $1,520, closing easier with sellers at $1,510. Bank of East Asias changed hands at $115/115½ and more shares could be placed at the former figure.

Insurances.—Canton Fires were in demand at $1,200. Unions met with enquiries at $440, business having been done at $445. China Underwriters remained steady with buyers at $3.50 with sales reported at $3.60.

Shipping.—Douglases were rather quiet but could be placed at $27¼. Hong Kong Steamboats were on offer at $21.75.

Docks, Wharves and Godowns.—Hong Kong & Kowloon Wharves were again on the quiet side with sellers at $143½. Providents (old) eased off a little, transactions having been put through at $5.10/.25.

Hotels and Real Estate.—Hong Kong & Shanghai Hotels (C.R.) suffered a decline, the market closing easy with sellers at $12. Hong Kong Lands were again the medium of a fair turnover at $78, and there were further buyers at $77¾. Hong Kong Realties were slightly firmer with business done at $11.90, closing in demand at this figure.

Cotton Mills.—Ewos were transacted in large quantity at T14.60/.75, but eased off slightly at the close with shares obtainable at T14.50.

Public Utilities.—Trams were dealt in at $23/23.25 at the opening, but reacted a bit towards the close with business done as low as $22.50. Star Ferries were in good demand at $90 without attracting sellers. China Lights (old) showed some weakness with shares on offer at $20.70. Hong Kong Electrics continued firm at $74.50 with sales reported at $74.75. Telephones (partly paid) could be had at $23.80.

A Training For Daughters; Laundry Possibilities

In these days of constantly varying fabrics there is tremendous scope for laundries that can undertake to wash the fine laces, silks, artificial silks and woolens of which our clothes are now made.

Years ago everyone wore either the plain linen, cotton or woollen lingerie that would stand hard washing, mangling, etc.

Laundering is a specialized business, and it is in this trade that a girl can look now for a reliable career.

Not Drudgery.

Laundry work is by no means drudgery, nor is it monotonous, as the articles to be laundered are so dainty and varied, and there is definite pleasure and satisfaction in seeing a pile of well-washed and well-ironed clothes.

As a career, a girl can aim at laundry management. There is, however, not necessarily only one position worth while in a laundry in these days. Laundries are large, well-organized businesses with various sections which need administrators or supervisors with knowledge and intelligence.

Practical training is necessary for any position and this can easily be obtained at numerous classes or trade school centres at reasonable fees.

Suitable for Women.

The period of training is from six to 12 months.

Some of the best laundries take apprentice pupils.

Here you can be taught how the different fabrics should be laundered by hand or machinery, the value of plant and machinery, the purchase of stores, arrangements for transport, office work connected with the business, and an insight into the management of staff.

All this will be helpful whether you have a business of your own or not.

There is plenty of scope for the ambitious girl to start a small hand laundry business for special fabrics if care is taken in selecting the right neighbourhood.

Many Methods.

For instance, there are many varieties of artifical silk nowadays that need different kinds of treatment when being washed, and numerous other new fabrics requiring individual landering.

Many big firms provide you with instructions regarding the washing of certain materials.

Lace And Wool

A Swallow-Tail coat of lace was one of the novelties seen at a fashion parade of the new season's creations in Golden Square yesterday.

It was of heavy red lace and was worn over an evening gown of brown and cream lace—the skirt being cut in two pieces and joined down the front and back where the lace hung in soft cascades.

There was also some dual fashions, including a lovely blue coat, called "Escapade," of sofe woollen loosely-woven fabric. Round the waist was a red leather belt with a special hinged fastner designed by the youthful creator of the gowns—Mr. Ronald Morrel.

Dual Dresses

At one side of the front was a large blue hand-stitched rever and at the other a red one that extended over the shoulder and formed a scarf, and was tucked through the belt. When the scarf rever was taken off it left an attractive coat frock. Another dual design was a fine black woollen skirt, umbrella shape, fitting snugly as far as the knees and then going off into a flare of broad tucks.

Interchangeable Blouses.

With it the mannequin wore a broad tucked yellow and white printed chiffon blouse with an upstanding frill at the neck and a black bolero short-sleeved coatee.

She next appeared in the same skirt with a black tuck-in blouse of similar fabric and a yellow and white organdie cape collar with shoulder sleeves. Her arms were bare, but at her wrists were flared cuffs of tucked organdie to match. Its name as "Fuzzy Wuzzy."

Raffia crochet decorated a spring costume of deep canary fine wool material. It formed the basque and insertion in the sleeves and round the collar.

A Military Touch

"Brigadier" was a dull black crepe afternoon dress trimmed with "necklace" of red and white three-cornered pieces of cloth. The slit sleeves revealed a similar decoration.

One of the newest uncrensable fabrics—wool voile—in a shrimp tint with a while pin trip was made into a day dress. A feature of it was its straightness. There was no apparent fullness, and its perfect fit was through the clever arrangement of the fabric joined in crossway panels.

A new neck treatment was provided by folds of tangerine wool voile round the neck line with tiny half collars over it on each shoulder.

Clothes That Are Cool & Chic for All Sports Occasions

RASPBERRY red and lavender blue are fashion's newest exotic combination. One sleek dinner frock of rich blue lavender crepe is worn with a waist-length jacket of raspberry red velvet.

LARGE cuffs of embroidered silver ornament a white satin blouse worn by Mrs. M. Webster Dawley. With it she wears a close-fitting black hat with a silver feather and a black coat trimmed with ermine.

JACKETS vary greatly in length with waistline treatments important, jackets buttoned, buckled, or tied or describing a criss-cross handling. Double-breasted stylings are approved for jackets and also for coat-dresses and suits. Revers continue to be important and are wider than ever, on blouses, jackets and capes, and interest in revers is extended to evening as well as day-time fashions. Bracelets or clips outsmart a necklace when a dress neckline is fashionably high.

THE Marquise de Portago attended a recent fashionable tea wearing one of the new cape wraps which are much in vogue this Spring. The cape, made of black crinkly ribbon, was designed to slip over the head and fall in a point below the waist in the back. The Marquise wore it with a frock of black crepon fastening down the metal clips.

match Poland will break through Britain's record of clean-sweep victories. His physical condition does not, however, offer much hope if the match should go to five sets.

Scores as cabled by Reuter were as follow:—

H. .G N. Lee (Britain) beat Stolarow (Poland) 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.
F. J. Perry (Britain) beat Tclozynski (Poland) 7-5, 8-6, 6-2.

CAMBRIDGE WINNERS AT TENNIS.

Dark Blues Defeated by 12 to 4.

BETTY'S BROTHER BEATEN.

London, May 30.

Cambridge won the annual inter-Varsity lawn tennis competition to-day, the score being 12 wins to 4, with five matches abaddoned owing to rain.

There were two surprising defeats, the downfall of Madan Mohan, the Cambridge captain, by 6/2, 6/2, and that of Jim Nuthall, the brother of Betty Nuthall, by 6/2, 5/7, 6/3.

Joe Davis was 80 last April, Newman was 87 last March. Willie Smith will be 46 next January, but given continued good health, he has still many years for high-class play. Indeed, in my opinion, he has not yet reached the zenith of his power, and will be an even greater cueman than he is to-day.—Riley Lay.

A WHOLE WEEK'S NEWSPAPERS IN ONE.

An unemployed Chinese, Wong Tong, aged 27 years, who took an Austin Saloon car, for a joy-ride on the night of June 6, and was caught on the Peak by Traffic-Sergeant Brittain after over an hour's desperate chase on a motor-cycle, paid the penalty in the Central Magistracy on June 8, when he was sentenced to six months' hard labour, with additional fines totalling $100. The car, owned by Mr. H. R. Major, was damaged to the extent of $285. Traffic-Inspector C. F. Alexander, who prosecuted, said he was instructed to asked for a heavy penalty in view of the prevalence of such thefts. A full story of the exciting chase, together with the Police Court proceedings, is published in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

A motion, that the Government should reconsider and review existing water restrictions in the interests of public health, proposed by Mr. M. K. Lo, and seconded by Dr. Li Shu-fan, was carried by three votes to one vote at a meeting of the Sanitary Board held on June 8. Mr. Lo stated that his main reason in bringing forward the motion was that the Government, in not giving a fair trial to the Hon. Dr. Kotewall's suggestion at a meeting of the Legislative Council on May 19, did not give any reasons. In seconding the motion, Dr. Li drew attention to the danger of contamination, and the fear of an outbreak of cholera. The meeting is fully reported in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

The new clubhouse of the Kowloon Golf Club, at Kowloon City, was declared open by the G.O.C. His Excellency Major-General J. W. Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., on June 4, in the presence of a large gathering of members and their friends. The clubhouse, erected on the old site, embodies many modern features, and provides adequately for the Ladies' section. The President (Mr. J. H. Hunt, O.B.E.) in the course of his speech, welcomed the guests, and paid a warm tribute to the Military authorities for their splendid co-operation and unfailing help. The ceremony is reported in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

PRINCE'S GOLFING PROWESS

May Attain Single Figure Handicap.

THOROUGHLY ENTHUSIASTIC

London, May 12.

If the Prince of Wales continues this season to improve his game of golf as much as he did last year, he soon will reach the distinction of a single-figure handicap. Today he is thoroughly enthusiastic about the game, he works hard to improve, and it is good for golf that his brothers are equally keen. The fine showing the Prince made in the Royal Tournament at Sunningdale proved that he is a very good eleven handicap player. His sphere of competition is necessarily limited, but he is now taking part in the Parliamentary Handicap on the course at the Coombe Hill Club, Surrey.

In the first round, he drew a bye, and in his first match he defeated Mr. A. Gray, a Parliamentary journalist. Then he met and defeated in the third round Mr. Harcourt Johnstone, M.P. for South Shields (4), by one hole. He now has to play Lord Rosebery (2) in the fourth round. His fight with Mr. Johnstone was in and out. Twice the Prince pulled level from being 2 down, and eventually he gained a noteworthy victory with a perfect chip-shot at the eighteenth.

He started away in fine fettle and claimed the first and second holes, but was all square at the 7th, for Mr. Johnstone won the 6th in 3 and the 7th in 4. Mr. Johnstone turned one up, but at the 10th the match again was squared. Then Mr. Johnstone once more got a two-hole lead, but the Prince replied by winning the 14th in 4, and, after halving the 15th with the aid of the last of his five strokes, he squared the match at the 16th. The 17th hole was halved in 3 and the Prince, after being in the rough at the back of the green with his second shot, played a perfect chip dead for a 4 at the home hole, to win the match. It was a result which gives point to the belief that the Prince's handicap of 11 soon will be lowered.

WELSH SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP.

H. K. James and Miss Broadley Win Titles.

Cardiff, June 4.

The Welsh long-distance swimming championships were decided to-day. H. K. James (Weston-super-Mare) won the event for men from R. A. Kemp (Penguin, London) and D. A. Hunt (Weston-supper-Mare).

The women's race resulted in a win for Miss Broadley (Hammersmith). She was closely followed home by Miss Williams (Merthyr) second, and Miss Browning (Newport), third.

NUVOLARI WINS BIG PRIZE

Carraciola Forced Out of Race.

Rome, June 5.

The automobile race for the Grand Prix of Italy at Monza ended with the victory of the Italian Nuvolari, driving an Alfa Romeo. He averaged 167.5 kilometres per hour. Fagiioli, with a Maserati, came second and Borgacchini, in an Alfa Romeo, third.

There were 15 entries, 11 Italians, 3 Frenchmen and one German, Rudolf Carraciola, who was compelled by motor trouble to abandon the race after the second lap.

In the Badminton book of golf, published in 1890, it is proclaimed and pictured as the proper stance for driving, that the right foot must be two or three inches behind the left. I mention this to indicate that the countless disciples of present-day American systems are simply reverting to fairly ancient British theories.—Harry Vardon.

There never has been such a boxing season in England as now. At least, there were never so many fights of seeming importance, though, enthusiastic as I am, I cannot bring myself to believe the boxing is of the high standard it was just before, during, and just after the war.—Jeff Barr.

Kaye Don Hopes to be at Detroit

Lord Wakefield's Third Misfortune

MISS ENGLAND III DISAPPOINTS

The first Miss England, built by Lord Wakefield to chase the world speed boat record, killed its pilot the day it shattered the existing mark. The second Miss England, after clinching the speed title for the British builder, dived into the waters of the Detroit River during a race against Commodore Gar Wood and almost drowned Kaye Don, its pilot, and his mechanics. Both these craft were destroyed in the mishaps.

The third Miss England simply did not travel fast enough to be a threat to the present records, and could not come up to the speeds of her elder sisters.

The following story tells of the abortive plans of the owner, Lord Wakefield, and of his pilot, Kaye Don, to break world marks at Lake Garda and seek a contest with Commodore Wood in America.

Miss England III was launched on the Thames and dispatched to Italy to make her first trials on Lake Garda with Kaye Don as pilot. He was to have competed in the race for the D'Annunzio Trophy during the Regatta from the May 22 to 29, with a view to regaining the speedboat record, but owing to mechanical faults in the construction of Miss England III, the British ace was forced to abandon his attempt and return to England to discuss modifications to the craft.

In June of last year at the same place Kaye Don in Miss England II raised the world's speed record to 110.28 m.p.h. This record was broken by Gar Wood at Miami, Florida, in February last with a speed of 111.71 m.p.h.

It is hoped that these modifications will be completed in time to allow Kaye Don to compete in the British International Trophy race at Detroit in September, when it is expected that he will again meet Commodore Gar Wood.

Following upon the mishap to Miss England II during the race for the British International Trophy at Detroit last September, Lord Wakefield announced that he would build a new boat, Miss England III, in which another attempt would be made to recapture the Trophy from America.

Secret in Building.

Miss England III was designed by Thornycrofts and built at their works at Platts Eyot, Hampton-on-Thames. The details of the boat have been kept a closely guarded secret.

The craft embodies many new ideas in marine construction and it is believed that she will be the fastest craft that has ever taken the water.

She is 35 ft. in length with a beam of 9 ft. 6 ins. In the construction of the hull, two skins of mahogany are used with oiled fabric between. The inner skin is diagonal and the outer fore and aft. A third skin forming the step is built up into the hull from the bow. As in the case of Miss England II, a forward rudder will be fitted.

As an example of the accuracy of the work, it is interesting that the weight of the hull was within .05 of a ton of the estimated weight.

The boat will be driven by two Rolls-Royce Schneider Trophy type engines, developing 4,000 h.p. and driving through gear boxes to propellers.

The two propellers are machined from solid blocks of special high tensile steel each requiring 300-350 hours to machine.

Owing to the simplification of the controls Kaye Don will have only one mechanic with him instead of two as previously, and the steering wheel in consequence is set off the centre of the boat slightly to starboard.

Don's Career.

Kaye Don, who was born in Dublin, 38 years ago, had his first experience of speed attempts on motof cycles. After the Great War he drove in numerous motor cycle reliability trials and hill climbs.

When motor cycling began to lose interest for him he took up motor racing at Brooklands and had numerous successes, including the winning of the Light Car Cup in 1921 and the President's Gold Plate two years in succession. In 1923 he obtained the world's record for the standing start mile at 101.77 m.p.h. and the same year won the R.A.C. Tourist Trophy at Ulster with an average speed of 44 m.p.h. In that year he also won the 24 hours second time the Gold Star at the phenomenal speed of 128 m.p.h., the highest speed ever obtained for a long distance race in Europe.

During the T.T. race at Ulster in 1930 he had a miraculous escape when his car skidded, overturned and caught fire.

When Lord Wakefield agreed to race Miss England II again, Kaye Don was chosen as pilot. In April at Buenos Aires he established the world's record of 103.49 m.p.h. In July of the same year at Lake Garda he raised this record to 110.28 m.p.h.—Reuter

TEST CRICKET FOR WOMEN.

Possibilities of Tate Being Vamped.

M. D. LYON SPEAKS OUT.

"Mixed cricket, unlike mixed bathing, will never do. Suppose a woman player were opening the innings for Australia in a Test and that she vamped Tate, for example."

This is the amusing picture conjured up by Mr. M. D. Lyon, the Somerset wicket-keeper and batsman, in his book "Cricket," (Eyre and Spottiswoode, 5s.).

Emphasising his view that women should play cricket only among themselves, he says:

"I hope that no offence will be taken from the advice that women should play only with other women. This is not said out of any sense of superiority. It is my opinion that the ladies will enjoy their cricket more in this way and that cricket itself will gain more by the incursion of these brave and talented recruits into the limited field I have suggested."

Club's Losses.

A time limit for each of the four innings in county matches is a suggestion made by Mr. Lyon.

"The M.C.C. spokesmen have attempted to show that the recent heavy losses suffered by first-class clubs were caused chiefly by an abnormal amount of rain," he writes. "Rain may have hastened the collapse, but my proposals are definitely designed to deal as far as possible with that difficulty.

"Three days should be allotted to a county match. But only three hours, or at most three and a half, should be allowed for each of the four innings.

"Somerset, for example, win the toss against Gloucester and bat first. At the end of three hours, whether all Somerset's wickets have fallen or not, their innings is closed. Then Gloucester go in for an equal time. Consequently if there is no rain, the match will be decided on the second evening.

Every Over Important.

"But if rain has thrown the time-table out of joint, the third day can be utilised as long as is necessary to give each side two innings of three hours each or until the match is lost or won. If rain has prevented play for more than six hours, then the match should be decided on the first innings.

"People will not go to watch slow, dull batting. But were every minute, and every over, is of importance to the result of the match, a different story might be told.

Mr. Lyon puts cricket as the most difficult game at which to become an expert.

Next in the following order he places golf, polo, billiards, real tennis, Association football, Rugby football, squash rackets and Corinthian lacrosse.

"With heavy sarcasm, after lndia and billiards he may have found

FRENCH AUTO RACER BADLY INJURED

Boillot Dragged from Burning Car.

Chateau Roux, June 6.

In the course of the tests preceding the annual race of automobile "aces," the famous French paper and motor car constructor Boillot crashed against a tree.

His car immediately caught fire. Boillot was lifted from his seat, not without difficulty, and was transported to the hospital where the doctors discovered several factures and injuries to the face.

The racer was immediately operated upon. His condition remains very serious, though there is still hope that he will live.

The spirit of rivalry in football is contagious. We players feel it. Although spectators might not always appreciate it we play to please our crowd. Like actors, we get our greatest pleasure out of the knowledge that our supporters are delighted with our play.—Tom Cox, when our public are shelling out for a match at the Fun Farkar, Les Arsenal, Britain.

GANGSTERS' "CIVIL WAR".

Chicago.

Reports are current that all is not well within the ranks of the gang of Al Capone.

They have it that a revolt has been started by some members to prevent Frank Nitti, the reputed "enforce" of Capone's orders, from taking charge of the "syndicate" while Scaface is locked up as a violator of the income tax law.

Nitti recently returned to Chicago from Leavenworth prison, where he served 15 months in the Government penitentiary for a tax law violation.

One Chicago paper said a Murray Humphries had been leading the revolt and reported that open warfare may result between the rival factions.

The Gold Standard

The findings of the Gold Delegation, appointed by the League of Nations in 1929, provide little information of value and the report is disappointing in that it is conservative, cautious and far from comprehensive. The conflict of opinion is shown in the divergence of views expressed in the main report and the minority report. The committee upholds the gold standard, claiming that it is the best available monetary mechanism, and is capable of achieving most of the advantages claimed for alternative standards. The very wording of the report admits discrepancy and the statement that gold will achieve most of the advantages of other standards reveals the fact that the gold standard is by no means ideal. The omission of any finding on silver, or the alternative of a combined gold and silver standard, detracts from the worth of the finding, particularly at a time when many countries, including the British Empire, are seriously considering the possibilities of adopting such a standard. Indeed, many leading economists opine that the only solution of the complicated monetary problem is the recognition of silver, preferably in a ratio to gold. The advantages of such a system are many, including the provision of sufficient metal to cover the world's needs and the opening of new increased markets in the Far East and countries like Mexico, where silver is the basic metal of the currency. The League report declares that apart from the considerations of the distribution of the world's stocks of monetary gold, they are adequate to support the world's credit structure, but this declaration is made in the face the opinions of many experts that the supply is inadequate, and that future production will be insufficient to keep pace with increasing needs. So intricate is the maze of international finance that the experts often confess their lack of complete understanding of the relative positions of the various countries, and that only when all the facts are known will it be possible to control gold so that it will be used to the best advantage of the people of the world.

Another point which the report makes is that the gold standard is not automatic, and that it is necessary to have a central organisation to control the gold standard. Such a central organisation would be the Bank for International Settlements, which was established at Basle in 1930. The Bank has been criticised on the ground that it is unnecessary, but the report declares that it is necessary for the proper working of the gold standard. Hong Kong and Air Mail

Only Feasible Route Saves Little Time

ADDITIONAL CHARGE HIGH

EFFORTS OF GOVERNMENT & CHAMBER FRUITLESS.

Six months of investigation by the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce and the local Government on the subject of Hong Kong mails in relation to air mail services, has come to naught as the only service at present feasible for Hong Kong mails to connect with is via Singapore and Alor Star. This gives only a small saving of time which is discounted by the large additional charge which would have to be made.

The following is a summary of correspondence which has passed between the Chamber and the Government on the subject, as supplied by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce:—

Chamber Takes Initiative.

In December last the Chamber of Commerce discussed the question of a possible alternative fast route for letters in the event of interference with mail services to and from Europe via Siberia.

The Government was written to requestings that enquiries be made as to schedule, time of transmission and cost of possible alternatives, e.g., by the various air mail routes by which letters are received and forwarded in the Straits Settlements.

The Chamber of Commerce also forwarded to the Government a copy of the Straits Settlements Post Office Pro Forma Time Table giving details of the air mail services at present existing, which was received from the Singapore Chamber of Commerce.

The Postmaster General, Hong Kong, also obtained details of air mail services from the Director General of Posts at Bandoeng and the Federated Malay States Director of Posts and Telegraphs.

Only Feasible Connection.

The only air mail service with which it appears feasible at the moment for Hong Kong mails to connect is the weekly service via Singapore and Alor Star. Hong Kong mails to London connecting with this service would take at least 16 or 17 days—a saving of four or five days only, compared with the route from Hong Kong via Siberia. Latterly, however, there has been some speeding up on this route.

The Committee of the Chamber of Commerce agreed with the Postmaster General that, in view of the small saving of time effected, an air mail service is not likely to attract much support so long as the Siberian route is working normally, particularly in view of the large additional charge which would have to be made.

It is understood, however, that arrangements are being made whereby an air mail service will operate immediately in the event of the Siberian route being interrupted.

If, and when, a direct air service between Hong Kong and Bangkok or Saigon becomes an established fact, air mails will no doubt be carried, as the reduction in time which will be effected by such a service will put the question on a different basis.

U.S. EXPORTS TO ORIENT.

Big Gain Shown in Winter.

With business at home failing to show any marked expansion in recent months, figures of export trade for the United States disclosing moderate increase in February over January are interesting. Total exports for the month were valued at $143,924,000 or an increase of $4,000,000 compared with the preceding month. Imports totalled $130,977,114.

Shipments to 16 foreign markets showed gains in February, Belgium, Greece, Russia, Canada, Brazil, Chile and Japan being among the foreign buyers who bought more from Uncle Sam.

Sales Still Low.

Although there was a gain for the month, the total level of sales abroad continues substantially below that of one year ago. One market to show a great decline is that of Soviet Russia which for the first two months of 1932 purchased American goods to the value of $2,700,000 compared with $86,800,000 in the corresponding months of 1931.

War conditions in the Orient were reflected in a sharp increase in exports. During the first two months of the year Japan purchased goods valued at $27,000,000, an increase of $11,000,000 over January and February of 1931. Chinese purchases were $15,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 compared with one year ago.

The importance of Europe in American foreign trade is evident from the fact that nearly one-half of the total sales abroad in February of $74,000,000 went to European countries. European purchasing power has been badly contracted, however, and in the first two months of the year exports from America to Europe were valued at $145,000,000, a decrease of $110,000,000 from the [illegible]

BARONET PLANS A "CAT HUNT."

Greyhounds to Comb Mayfair Streets.

Sir Charles Mappin, aged twenty-three, has been so disturbed by the howling of cats at night, that he has organised the Old Berkeley-square Cat Hounds—and has arranged a "meet."

He states that more than a hundred men and women residents of Mayfair have accepted his invitation to this meet. The letter runs:

You are invited to the opening meet of the Old Berkeley-square Cat Hounds at the Running Horse in East Chapel-street. The pack will then move off to the Running Footman in Charles Street for further refreshment before setting out to run as many cats to earth as make themselves heard about the structure of my house.—Signed, Sir Charles Mappin, Bt., M.C.H., Marquis de Sade, 1st Whip.

His Hounds.

Sir Charles said: "We may use greyhounds in the hunt. We shall avoid cruelty, but we shall comb the streets and lock the captured cats in a room rented for the occasion.

"Cats not claimed by their owners will probably be painlessly destroyed.

"An appeal will be made to owners who turn up to keep their cats quiet at night. Stray cats make the night hideous. It is time something was done."

Sir Charles Thomas Hewitt Mappin, fourth baronet, is the son of the late Thomas Wilson Mappin, eldest son of the third baronet. He was married to Miss Ruby Gordon Duff, daughter of Captain Gordon Duff in 1930.

Personal Paras.

The Hon. Mr. H. T. Creasy, Director of Public Works, who is retiring shortly, will be the guest of his Chinese friends at a farewell dinner to be held in his honour at the Kau Ling Hotel, West Point, on [illegible]

The remains of the late Mr. E. R. Dovey, Government Analyst, which are to be embalmed and conveyed to Sydney, Australia, at the request of his parents, were taken to the Chapel of the Protestant Cemetery, Happy Valley, last evening, where they will remain until the time of shipment.

A service was conducted at the Chapel by the Rev. E. G. Powell, assisted by the Rev. Frank Short, and there was a large gathering of mourners present.

The chief mourner was the deceased's cousin, Dr. J. E. Dovey, who walked immediately behind the hearse, and a company of the Police Reserves also attended, the late Mr. Dovey having been originator and commanding officer of the Sharpshooters' Company.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government was represented by Captain Webb, A. D. C.

Among those present were Hon. Mr. H. T. Creasy, Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, Mr. F. H. Loseby, Dr. D. J. Valentine, Mr. M. F. Key, Dr. R. B. Jackson, Dr. R. S. Begbie, Dr. G. W. Pope, Dr. A. Greaves, Hon. Mr. T. H. King, (Acting I. G. P.), Mr. W. Schofield, Mr. J. C. M. Grenham, Dean Swann, Mr H. A. Taylor, Dr. Fehlly, Mr. M. R. Deb, Mr. T. H. Murphy, Mr. C. G. Perdue, Mr. D L. King, Chief Inspector Grant, Inspector Fallon, Mr. F. D. Leonard, Mr. F. J. de Rome, Mr. Bishen Singh, and Mr. F. A. Redmond.

There was a profusion of wreaths which included those from the father and mother; from his sorrowing wife; from your L.S.; from his brother Wilfred, Natalie, Jan and Lilies; and from H.E. the Officer Administering the Government and Mrs. Southorn.

INVESTMENT TRUST EXPERIENCES.

Ill-Fated Stocks Notably Absent from List.

London, May 14.

The Lake View Investment Trust, which publishes a full record of its investments and a table classifying them by location, character of undertaking, and type of security, shows a balance-sheet figure of £2,155,000 for total investments "at or under cost." The market valuation of these on March 31 was only 4.12 per cent. below the balance-sheet figure, less the reserve account of £250,000. In the report of a year ago it was merely stated that market values then exceeded in the aggregate the amount at which they stood in the balance-sheet (the same figure approximately as that mentioned above). Thus either a very substantial "hidden reserve" was present in the valuation a year ago or the company's investments have been subjected to remarkably small depreciation in the last year. Over one-quarter of the total investments are in British industrial stocks. Some of the more ill-fated investments are notably absent from the list. There is no Royal Mail Steam Packet and no Kreuger and Toll, only a trifling holding of Swedish Match, and no Molasses. The other substantial investment in British paper is in banks, insurance, and investments, which are 6.4 per cent. of the total. Another 9 per cent. is held in Empire industrials and 7 per cent. in United States industrials. The railway paper held is exclusively South American and stands for 8 per cent. of the grand total. Another 5 per cent. is held in South American Government securities. Otherwise classified, the investments are 88 per cent. bonds, 25 per cent. preference shares, and 87 per cent. ordinary shares.

The investments of the Abbotts Investment Trust are shown at £672,000 at or under cost, but while a year ago the market valuation was three-quarters of that figure this year it is barely over one-half of it. This Trust publishes its full investments, but without a classification. The Central European and South American investments are a large proportion of the total, but other assets on the whole have been avoided and the holdings are widely [illegible]

"Lesson" of Japanese Invasion

Conjectures On Aftermath of the Shanghai War

Nationals Weep As Troops Depart

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, June 1.

The last remaining troops of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces have shaken the dust of Shanghai off their feet. They have gone. They left yesterday, and with their going, Chinese as well as foreigners have cause to heave a sigh of intense relief.

The presence of the Japanese soldiery was at no time unaccompanied by the ever present danger of collisions not alone with the Chinese but also with the Municipal Police in the lawful execution of their duties, as the ugly Sinza Road incident so forcefully revealed. Full credit must be given to the Japanese authorities, in fairness and justice to the latter, for observing fidelity to plighted word. True to the announcement made by the Tokyo Government on May 12, to the effect that the land forces of the Island Empire would be completely withdrawn from the Shanghai area within the space of a month, all of the Army units have now sailed for home, with the departure of Lieutenant-General Uyeda and the remnants of the troops yesterday, considerably in advance of the expected time, to the surprise of Chinese, foreigners and, not least of all, the Japanese themselves.

Curiously enough, the distinguished 9th Division, which was the first Japanese military unit to land in Shanghai, was the last to go. Only bluejackets now remain in Shanghai to protect the interests of Japanese nationals, an exact reversion to the situation prevailing prior to that fateful night of January 28.

A Rousing Farewell.

As Lieutenant-General Uyeda, his staff and other units embarked in transports for the homeland, they were recipients of a rousing farewell at the hands of a large body of their nationals who had gathered at the wharf side to do them honour. A naval band was in attendance to play "Auld Lang Syne" in approved style, the strains being wafted on the air simultaneously with the departure of the transport Liverpool Maru. Aboard the ship, the bugle sounded, and all the officers and men stood at attention and saluted the thousands of well-wishers on the pier. A thunderous shout of "Banzai" went up from the crowd on the wharf and was repeated thrice. The troops aboard the transport responded in lusty fashion.

Women Cry.

The eyes of some Japanese women were seen to dim and furtive tears welled up as little handkerchiefs were produced when they thought nobody was looking. Well might the women have cried, because Lieutenant-General Uyeda made a farewell oration of a nature that could not help tugging at the heart-strings. He spoke of the sorrow with which the Japanese troops had seen the body of their beloved Commander-in-Chief, General Baron Shirakawa, precede them to their home; of the regret with which the troops were leaving the Japanese community in Shanghai; of their warm appreciation of the kindness and solicitude shown by the Japanese colony for the well-being of the troops during their sojourn on these shores; and finally the departing General assured the gathering that he and his men would never forget them in spirit, though they might be absent in body, significantly adding that they could always count on the "humble services" of the troops should the need ever arise.

This observation is interpreted in informed quarters to mean that although the exigencies of the situation have compelled the evacuation of the Japanese forces from Shanghai that does not mean that they will not return should a crisis arise of sufficient gravity to justify their coming back.

Dramatic Aftermath.

The dramatic return to Manchuria and Japan. The writer of these notes has tried to canvass among a number of thoughtful members of the community, both Japanese and foreigners, for expressions of opinion relative to the precise benefits or disadvantages accruing to the Japanese people in this region of Asia by the "undeclared war" in Shanghai.

The opinions expressed are as plentiful as the proverbial autumn leaves in Vallambrosa. Some there are who hold that the short-lived campaign has done Japanese trade and commerce in China more harm than good and that the boycott, though not overtly conducted, as it used to be prior to January 28, is just as acute as ever, the activities of the boycott promoters being of the more insidious order and directed along subterranean channels. A leading Japanese merchant has ventured the opinion that it is a matter of grave doubt if the trade of Nippon in this country can ever survive this boring underground, done with a tenacity worthy of a better object.

This school of thought suggests that it would be as well frankly to abandon the pretence that the troops came here to "protect" the Japanese and not for considerations of bolstering up the prestige of the fighting forces in Japan, for political ends.

A "Lesson"

On the other hand, there are not a few "die-hards" who claim that the Japanese military expedition has been eminently successful, in the sense not of newly acquired territory in the Shanghai area but of having administered a "lesson" to the Chinese which it will take them a long time to forget and the moral effect of which is likely to be enduring. This contention may be true in more than one sense. The Chinese have proverbially long memories. Whether remembrance of the Chapei holocaust in future years may be conducive to the promotion of Sino-Japanese trade is a moot point. It all hinges on the way the Chinese take the "lesson" to heart.

In the meantime, the Japanese troops have gone. That is so much to the good.

SALES AT ROYAL ACADEMY

Nearly £6,000 in One Week.

WELL UP TO AVERAGE

In spite of "bad times" and the general shortage of spending money, the results of the first week of the Royal Academy's Summer show—eighty two pictures sold at a total of nearly £6,000—are well up to the average.

This is the more remarkable in that artists have recently found themselves among the hardest hit victims of the general depression.

Oil pictures outnumber the water-colours in the work sold. By contrast with the pictures, only three pieces of sculpture have so far been purchased. This, however, is quite usual. It is rare for sculpture exhibits to be bought in any quantity early in the show, prospective purchasers perfering to inspect them at length, and it is in the last few weeks that most of the sculpture sales take place.

The highest price so far secured was the £1,500 for Mr. James Gunn's much commented on "Conversation Piece," depicting Mr. Hilaire Belloc, Mr. G. K. Chesterton, and Mr. Maurice Baring. This was, however, sold before the exhibition started. The best price since the start of the exhibition is the £630 for Mr. Arnesby Brown, R.A.'s, "The Beach"; while another of the higher figures is £400, given for "The Sampler," by Mr. Campbell Taylor, R.A.

Preston's Purchases.

Preston Corporation, it is understood, has purchased three pictures —Mr. Alfred J. Munnings, R.A.'s "The Full River," for £200, Mr. Gunning King's "Hampshire Meads" for 42 guineas, and a water-colour, "Coats of Many Colours" (a study of a group of love-birds), by Winifred Austen, for £21. The works will be hung in the Preston Art Gallery.

According to Burlington House officials, the attendance has been well up to the average, which is surprising in view of the bleak weather.

A CENTURY'S HISTORY

Accountant-General of the Navy

The retirement on May 1 of Sir Conrad Naef, C.B., C.B.E., from the post of Accountant-General of the Navy, and of Mr. Frank Storr from that of Deputy Accountant-General, was made the occasion for an important administrative change. The Department of the Accountant-General will be merged into that of the Secretary of the Admiralty, and the office of Accountant-General will be combined with that of Deputy Secretary of the Admiralty, at present held by Sir Vincent Baddeley. An officer with the title of Director of Navy Accounts, ranking as Assistant Secretary, will exercise the functions in regard to cash transactions affecting naval funds hitherto exercised by the Accountant-General.

EMPLOYMENT OF MINORS AT SEA

Boys Under 14 Cannot Accept Posts.

UNLESS WITH RELATIVE

Based on a League of Nations Convention an Ordinance is shortly to come before the Legislative Council to regulate the employment of young persons and children at sea.

It is explained that on July 9, 1920 a general conference of the International Labour Organization of the League of Nations adopted a Convention fixing 14 years as the minimum age for admission of children to employment at sea, except in school ships and training ships and in vessels upon which only members of the same family are employed, and requiring shipmasters to keep a register of all persons under 16 years of age.

Under Article 421 of the Treaty of Versailles it is necessary to apply the Convention to the Colony subject to such modifications as may be necessary to adapt the Convention to local conditions.

Amongst the provisions of the Ordinance are the following:

Local Exceptions.

Children under 14 years of age shall not be employed or work on vessels, other than vessels upon which only members of the same family are employed: Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the employment or work of such a child on any junk or sampan if the child is in the charge of a relative who is also a member of the crew of such junk or sampan and if such relative is in the opinion of the Harbour Master a fit and proper person to have charge of such child. Provided also that nothing in this section shall affect the employment or work of such a child on any school ship or training ship if such employment and work is approved and supervised by public authority.

The master of every vessel registered or licensed in the Colony shall keep a register, in a form supplied or approved by the Harbour Master, of all persons under the age of 16 years employed by him on board his vessel, or a list of them in the articles of agreement, and the dates of their births.

"Vessel" Defined.

For the purposes of this Ordinance the term "vessel" includes all ships and boats of any nature whatsoever, engaged in maritime navigation whether publicly or privately owned, except ships of war.

Any person who contravenes any provision of this Ordinance shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding 250 dollars.

This Ordinance shall not come into operatoin unless and until the Governor notifies by Proclamation that it is His Majesty's pleasure not to disallow the same and thereafter it shall come into operation upon such day as the Governor shall notify by the same or any other Proclamation.

"THE FLYING FOOL."

At first thought, it seems a somewhat difficult proposition to smuggle a full-grown man aboard an air-liner, but this is exactly what happens in "The Flying Fool," the B.I.P. production directed by Walter Summers, now on its final screenings at the Queen's.

Michael Marlow, head of an international gang of crooks, determines to "get rid of" Vincent Floyd, an amiable young ass, who is seemingly gifted with the knack of upsetting all Marlow's deeply laid plans.

After a few minutes a gang of "toughs" appear, carrying a large box to a waiting taxi. No sooner [illegible] than Floyd, to the delight of the gang, [illegible] inquisitive Bobby [illegible] "a work of Art" going to [illegible] on the one o'clock plane.

"POSSESSED."

Joan Crawford, with the screen's most popular leading man, Clark Gable, will be seen to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre in 'Possessed,' highly dramatic story of a factory girl who, rebelling against an environment of drab poverty, ends up on Park Avenue to find that wealth and happiness do not necessarily go hand in hand.

The picture was adapted from the Edgar Selwyn stage play, "The Mirage," in which Florence Reed created a sensation a few years ago. As the box-factory employee who gives up a small-town lover to become the mistress of a New York philanderer, Miss Crawford is said to have her strongest talkie role to date.

Wallace Ford, popular New York stage player, makes [illegible] debut in the picture as the small [illegible] lover, and [illegible] Gable's [illegible] Clarence [illegible] Frank Conroy, Marjorie White, Joan Miller and Clara Blandick.

In her newest production, Miss Crawford was directed by Clarence Brown.

"THE GAY GABALLERO"

El Coyote is the central figure in "The Gay Gaballero", Tom Gill's romantic adventure of the present day border country which Fox Films have produced with George O'Brien, Victor McLaglen and Conchita Montenegro in the leading roles. Around the exploits of this mysterious rider revolve the strange and gripping dramatic incidents that compose the picture and showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

Romance of a dramatic intensity enters the story when O'Brien falls in love with Conchita Montenegro, niece of the hated Gordon, fiery daughter of Spain, and the richest heiress in all of Mexico. Their love is complicated, further by the presence of Weldon Heyburn, suitor for Conchita's hand and chieftain of Gordon's cruel vaqueros.

A killer, a mad, insolent daredevil, or a liberator who [illegible] the rights of home makers above [illegible] master of [illegible] wealth—who is the Gay Caballero?

But before the mystery is unravelled, before peace comes to the borders O'Brien and Heyburn meet in Herculean combat to see whether one place can hold two such men as they. The desert unfolds [illegible] treachery, high courage, and death [illegible] the Gay [illegible]

"GREY HAIR AN ASSET."

Viscountess Gladstone on Her Visit to China.

London, May 20.

A large London audience was impressed to-day by a graphic account of the effects of the Japanese bombardment of Shanghai by Viscountess Gladstone in an address to the Overseas League. She said that at first she was surprised to find no signs of depression in Shanghai. It was a thriving city and everybody seemed cheerful but, returning after a trip up the Yangtse, she discovered the place dead, nobody moving except soldiers and miserable refugees. "My visit to China had been so happy that these last days were a sad and terrible memory."

Paying a tribute to Chinese chivalry, the Viscountess said: "My grey hair was my greatest asset in China. I was treated with the utmost respect because of it. That is a very nice thing, which, unfortunately, does not apply everywhere else."

[illegible] a gallant band of [illegible] is [illegible] on [illegible] which includes Linda Watkins, Wilfred [illegible] Martin Garralaga and John Tovey.

Long Ago Stories

Eliseg And The Roman Yoke

The Romans had taken a number of Welsh prisoners, and Eliseg, a boy of thirteen who had carried his father's arrows during the battle, lay hidden in a tree, watching the enclosure where the Welsh were herded like sheep in a pen and guarded by Roman soldiers. The men of the mountains had fought bravely, and, as the great Caesar was in the Roman camp, Eliseg wondered whether the chief prisoner, his father, would be released in honour of the Roman.

"If they kill my father," thought the boy, "my mother will collect an army and lead it against them. The Druids will march in front singing, the glee boys will play upon harps, and I will shout my father's name — Cyngen the Raven-bearded! Then not even the Caesar will be able to stand against us."

"Over the top of the posts a heavy bar was fixed."

All day and night Eliseg hid in the tree, eating only a few beans. In the morning, he saw several Romans carrying heavy pieces of wood, like stakes for the burning of witches, and his heart beat fearfully. But soon he began to frown, because he could not imagine why they were setting up a kind of gateway without a door. Two posts were driven into the ground between two rocks, and over the top of these a heavy bar was fixed. When this was ready, a Roman general went to the prisoners and addressed them in very bad Welsh, but Eliseg nearly fell out of the tree when he heard what was said.

In honour of Caesar, and because they had fought bravely, they were all to go free after they had passed under the yoke. The men of the mountains shook their heads, not knowing what the yoke might mean. Then the general explained that they were to march one by one under the wooden bar and, as they passed beneath the yoke, they would leave their glory, power, and strength behind them, and become free yet conquered men.

There was terrible wailing in the camp, and it was a long time before the prisoners could be driven under the yoke, but at last they raced beneath it and away to their mountains.

That evening Eliseg came home, dragging three posts after him, and he found his kinsmen depressed and covered with shame.

"This is the Roman yoke," explained Eliseg, "I took it when they marched on. Surely if you passed beneath it the other way round, you will regain your honour and strength."

This the men did, but the terror and shame of the Roman yoke spread throughout the land.

VERY BIG BOYS AND GIRLS.

There is a schoolboy in Canada who is only 14 years of age, but who stands 6½ feet in his socks, has a 52-inch chest, weighs 15½ stone — and is still growing!

It is on record that when the great Toller of St. Neots was only ten years of age, he was over 5 feet in height and when he stopped growing he was 8½ feet high! Toller's sisters followed their brother's lead for they too became giants, or rather giantesses!

Then there was Robert Hales, who was born in 1820. He was only 7½ feet in height when he stopped growing, but he made up for it by being 62 inches round the chest, a yard across the shoulders, and, in his prime, he scaled 33 stone. Just think of that! Robert was one of nine children, and all his brothers and sisters were over 6½ feet high.

The biggest married couple in the world were Mr. and Mrs. Bates who, together measured nearly 16 feet; Mr. Bates being just over eight feet and his wife just under. When attending school, young Bates took a 26-inch collar and fifteens in boots. As for his "little" brother, he was 6 feet 7 inches from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. SOME little brother, eh?

WENDY'S LITTLE NEEDLEWOMEN.

A Pretty Dressing-Table Set.

To make a pretty dressing-table set like the one sketched, you will need a piece of linen, fifteen inches wide and the length of your dressing-table top, for the runner; two pieces nine inches square for the little mats. Turn in narrow hems all round the three pieces, and sew them neatly. Then go over the hems with green wool back-stitching.

Copy the Bunny-Boys on to paper, making them about five inches high from ear-tip to toe-tip; the shapes are so simple that you will easily manage them. Then rub blue chalk over the backs of the drawings, and transfer the figures to the linen by placing the papers, blue sides down, on the corners of runner and mats and going over the lines with a steel knitting-needle. Bunny A goes in the left-hand corner; Bunny C in the right-hand corner. Outline each little animal with brown wool stem-stitching, add a wee black eye and black whiskers, and work the bob-tail with white wool.

The daisies are made by pencilling round sixpences, and working over the lines in pink wool backstitching, adding yellow satin-stitch centres. The stalks are short lines of green wool stem-stitching, and two lazy-daisy-stitches make each leaf. Diagram B gives all this quite clearly.

As an alternative, you could cut the Bunny-Boys out of scraps of linen, and applique them on to the runner and mats. Pale grey bunnies would look fine on a light blue background; so would white ones on rose-colour.

THE PRINCESS WHO GAVE HER HEART AWAY.

Once upon a time there was a young princess who inherited a kingdom, and she was so anxious to govern well that she gave her heart away!

"If I have no heart," thought the Princess, "I shall never feel anything. I shall not be able to feel sorry, or afraid, or anything. I must give my heart away at once."

That night she crept to the edge of the wood, and asked a white owl if he would take her heart.

"No," replied the owl, "I've got my own, and two would give me too much trouble."

Then the princess asked a deer, but he was too timid; the fox was too cunning to do such a thing; the bear too lazy. But at last a wild boar promised to keep the princess's heart. Then the princess said:—

"Heart, my heart, trouble me no more.
Heart, my heart, flee while I count four.
Heart, my heart, live in the wild boar."

She said this three times, and her heart vanished. The wild boar trotted into the forest, and the princess went home. She thought she felt a little strange, but it was several days before she realised that she felt nothing at all. She didn't care what happened to her country, and she found that everybody was beginning to dislike her.

"She used to have such a kind heart," she heard her prime minister saying, "but now she is horrid, and soon nobody will love her."

Then the princess confessed what she had done, and the prime minister sent hunters to find the wild boar, but it had disappeared.

"I do want my heart back; I am so cold without it," said the princess. "I will marry the man who brings me the wild boar."

For months people hunted for the wild boar, while the princess became colder and colder, and her people more and more anxious. Then a prince came to the palace with the poor wild boar looking very distressed.

"Take your heart back," said the wild boar, "It's much too tender for me. Why I allowed the prince to catch me without saying a word!"

So they were all happy once more. The princess married the prince, the wild boar went hunting, and the people rejoiced because their ruler was so good.

THE TINKITES' TOYSHOP.

How To Make A Toy Dog.

Here is an amusing toy which you can make for your small brother. Most of the parts can be cut out of two pieces of fretwood measuring twelve inches by seven inches, and thicker wood can be used for the base.

Take a piece of fretwood and mark out one side in one-inch squares, as shown in diagram A, to help you to outline the various parts, which can then be cut out with a fretsaw.

The body of the dog is made up of three parts, so cut two more parts B from the other piece of wood, using the part already cut out as a guide. One of these parts must have the end sawn off on the dotted line F.

A wooden dog for Small brother. Carpenter explains how it is made.

From the same piece of fretwood cut another back leg C, and another front leg D, using those already cut as guides. Do the same with the ear E.

Glue the three parts B together, with the short one in the centre to form a slot for the tail as shown in diagram G. For extra fixing, drive in three or four wire brads from each side.

Fix the legs to the body with small brass screws, except the one marked H, which should be five-eighths of an inch long, so that it passes through the tail to form a pivot. The tail can then be placed at any angle. The ears, too, should be screwed on so that they can be moved any way.

For the base, cut a piece of three-eighths-inch wood to the size given in diagram K. Along the centre of one side glue and nail a strip of wood as wide as the body of the dog and about half an inch thick.

The feet of the dog are screwed to either side of this strip, as shown in the first diagram. The wheels are small iron or wooden ones, about one and a quarter inches in diameter, held in place with screws driven into the sides of the base.

To give the toy dog a smart appearance, you must paint it. Black and white would be suitable, or black and tan, whichever you fancy. For the eyes, make shallow holes and glue in small glass beads; and round the neck fix a narrow strip of red leather to suggest a collar.

ROUND THE CAMP FIRE

(By Patrol Leader.)

Scouts are reminded that they must "be prepared" for the worst, as steps are being made to introduce new tests for the Prince of Wales Banner.

Scouters' Course.

A scouters' course, under the Rev. N. V. Halward, M.C., Commissioner for Training, is in progress at the Association Headquarters. The theoretical course is held every Monday, commencing at 8.30 p.m. next Monday Mr. R. Dormer, S.M. will give a talk on first aid. The practical part of the course will be held later.

Scout Sympathies

The sympathies of the local movement is extended to Dr. J. E. Dovey, of the Medical Department, on the sad loss he and his wife, Mrs. (Dr.) Dovey have been called upon to bear, through the death of Mr. E. R. Dovey, the Government Analyst, Dr. Dovey's cousin. Dr. Dovey was Scoutmaster of the 2nd Hong Kong (now re-named 1st Kowloon) Group for a time in 1928. His lectures in first aid were most helpful.

Ying Wah College.

I was sorry to learn that the 2nd Kowloon (Ying Wah College) Troop has become disorganised, but an encouraging vote from the Scoutmaster, Mr. Wu Cho-pang, states that the troop is being re-organised, and hope to be in a flourishing condition within a fortnight. My best wishes go with them.

Scout Millington.

Scout Harry Millington, formerly of the 15th Dover Troop, and now a member of St. Andrew's Troop, has passed the Swimmer's Badge. He is a very keen lad.

2nd Hong Kong Group.

Still Some Vacancies.

"The 16th Hong Kong Catholic Cathedral Group is now registered and known as the 2nd Hong Kong Catholic Group. The following are the officials:—Patron: H. E. Mongr. H. Valforta, President: Vacant, Vice-President: Rev. Fr. G. Byrne, S. J. Chaplain: Rev. Fr. E. Teruzzi, Scoutmaster-in-charge: Daniel W. Luke, Cubmaster: C. Coelho, Patrol Leaders: L. R. Sequeira, F. X. Sequeira, M. Gutierrez, H. Guterres, L. Remedios, A. Ablong.

The Headquarters is at the Cathedral Tower, Caine Road.

There are still some vacancies, in the Group and all parents interested in the Scout movement are asked to get in touch with the Scoutmaster.

The Group held a concert sometime during May to raise funds. As a result we have now a very fine quarters with 3 rooms for the officers, Rovers, Scouts and Cubs. Each Patrol has its own corner.

The quarterly Inter-patrol competition resulted in the Eagle Patrol, under P. L. F. X. Sequeira, came first, with the Kingfisher Patrol, under P. L. Gutierrez, a close second.

On Sunday, June 5, the Group attended a Procession of Our Lady of Rosary at the Cathedral and acted as Guard of Honour on the occasion. After the Procession the members of the Little Flower provided refreshments and cakes for the Group.

On the coming Sunday, June 12, a competition in Scoutcraft between the patrols will be held. The results will be published next Saturday.

In the meantime, good Scouting to all Groups."

Sketching Class.

Mr. S. A. Sweet, the well-known local artist, and District Commissioner for the 1st Kowloon Boy Scouts, is holding a sketching class for Kowloon Scouts at St. Andrew's Church grounds on Monday at 5.30 p.m. Boys are asked to bring a drawing pad, sharpened pencils and a rubber. Remember, there is the Artist Badge that you can win, and this will be a fine opportunity for you.

1st Kowloon Troop.

Over in the 1st Kowloon Troop circle, tests for the Banner Cup Competition are again in full swing. Four patrols, Kangaroos, Lions, Eagles and Swifts, are keenly contesting. The winners last Year were the Kangaroos, headed by P. L. Fred Wong, and the runners-up were the Lions. On May 19 the Kangaroos defeated the patrols, and on Thursday evening relays. If you [illegible] an observation test, a [illegible] the S.M. arranged [illegible]

Only one boy, P. L. Tang Sanh noticed that one of his shoe laces had been changed. At the end of the evening the Lions led with 85 points to their credit, with the Eagles second with 49, and the Swifts and Kangaroos totalled 38 points each.

Next week a general inspection will be carried out, and these will also be general knowledge tests.

Beggar's Usefulness.

An elderly Chinese beggar man, who hobbled about on two crutches near the Chater Bungalow site in Kowloon, made himself useful in helping in a tracking game arranged by Mr. Dormer for the 1st Kowloon boys on Thursday evening. The beggar hobbled across a certain area, say, 10 by 10 yards, and the S.M. added a few more footsteps, and the combination told a story.

Murray Group.

The inclement weather last Saturday afternoon prevented the 4th Hong Kong Murray Troops from going for a hike around the Hong Kong reservoirs. Mr. W. C. Law, scoutmaster of the troop, tells me that if the weather is fine today, they are having an outing.

D.S.M. Kowloon.

I learn from an authoritative source that Mr. Dormer is to be appointed District Scoutmaster of Kowloon. Congratulations!

HIS GOOD TURN

Saved A Bird From Telephone Wire.

A Patrol Leader, who by his modesty, wishes to remain anonymous, sends me the following:—

"On the afternoon of Friday, the King's Birthday, I was standing in my room looking out of my window. I noticed some black object, in a distance, wriggling on a telephone wire. Using a spy-glass I saw that the object was a sparrow. Hitching a knife to the end of a stick, I went out to see what I could do for the suffering bird.

"I was later joined by my brother who brought a step-ladder along with him. It was drizzling at the time.

"We found that the bird, a baby sparrow, was strung to the wire by one of its legs. We remembered the story of Bruce and the spider, and we tried and tried until we succeeded in cutting the bird down.

"The bird was drenched and it must have been in torture for some time. We went home and placed the bird, whose leg was injured, in a cardboard box with cloth padding. The bird recuperated and after a night's rest in a cage, we let it fly happily away."

There is a good turn for us to do everyday, if we look for it.

U.S. SCOUTS' PRESIDENT'S MUNIFICENCE

Gift of $250,000.

A gift of $250,000 to establish and endow a training school for Boy Scout leaders has been made by Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff as a memorial to her son, Mortimer L. Schiff, it was announced on May 16, by Walter W. Head, president of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, at a dinner of that organisation at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Mr. Schiff was a charter member of the council and was elected its president a year ago only a few weeks before his unexpected death of heart disease last June 4. In his will he bequeathed $100,000 to the Boy Scouts.

More than 500 delegates and guests attended the dinner in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria as part of the two-day meeting.

A pageantry of scouting was followed by addresses by Justice James C. Cropsey, who spoke on "Scouting and the City Boy"; Dr. Raymond Allen Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, who discussed "Scouting and the Country Boy"; and Bainbridge Colby, who spoke [illegible] scouting in connection with the nation.

CHANCELLOR'S OPTIMISM.

Confidence in Great Britain.

THIRD READING OF FINANCE BILL.

London, Yesterday.

The House of Commons to-day passed the third reading of the Finance Bill, by 409 votes to 34, after the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, had wound up the debate.

Mr. Chamberlain said he saw no reason to expect, at the present time, any appreciable falling short in the revenue yield estimated in the budget. He declared that confidence in the future of Great Britain has been restored throughout the world, since the advent of the National Government. He was hopeful of results from the Lausanne Conference.

The House of Lords passed the first reading of the Bill.

Imports Duties Changed.

London, Yesterday.

Additions have been made to the free list of goods exempted from the 10 per cent. ad valorem of the recently imposed export duties.

The list includes: unground crude emery, mercury, argol and other crude tartrates, gall nuts and kelp.

An additional duty of 23 1/8 per cent., making a total of 33 1/3 per cent., has been temporarily imposed on semi-finished iron and steel products.

The original imports scheme will be varied as from June 14 by the inclusion and exclusion of certain classifications, a notable inclusion being pig iron (except charcoal smelted). Owing to the recent steep fall in quotations for continental products, the home products has been gravely menaced.—Reuter.

NON-AGGRESSION PACTS IN FAR EAST.

Nanking Reports China Willing to Sign.

Nanking, Yesterday.

A Government spokesman to-day announced that China, prompted by a desire to promote world peace in the spirit of the Kellogg Pact, was prepared to open negotiations with the Soviet for the conclusion of the treaty for mutual non-aggression, the signing of which will mean the automatic resumption of Sino-Russian diplomatic relations.

China was also ready to conclude a similar treaty with other Powers, including Japan, he said.—Reuter.

Nomura Returning To-day.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The Naval Chapter of the Shanghai "incident" will end to-morrow, when Vice-Admiral Nomura, Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Naval Forces in Shanghai, and Mr. Shiozawa will sail aboard the flagship Izumo for Japan, where they will be welcomed as conquering heroes.—Reuter.

ANGLO-IRISH DEADLOCK.

Impossible to Reach Agreement.

MR. DE VALERA'S VISIT FAILS.

London, Yesterday.

"It has been found impossible to reach agreement," was the disconcerting official announcement at the conclusion of the Anglo-Irish negotiations, presided over by Mr. MacDonald. Mr. de Valera has returned to Dublin.—Reuter.

Rousing Welcome at Euston.

London, Yesterday.

The Irish population of London was fully represented at Euston station early this morning, to give a rousing welcome to Mr. Eamon de Valera, Prime Minister of the Irish Free State.

Mr. Thomas headed the official deputation of welcome, and entered the waiting motor car with the utmost difficulty, owing to the mobbing of the crowds.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister, is conducting the negotiations with Mr. de Valera. They lasted 90 minutes, and will be resumed this afternoon.—Reuter.

PROHIBITION REPEAL.

Republicans to Force Issue.

Washington, Yesterday.

President Hoover's partial surrender on the Prohibition issue—the official denials is not regarded as having any meaning—has encouraged the Republican leaders to press for an even more drastic tackling of the problem.

There are rumours of a proposed attempt at the G.O.P. Convention in Chicago, next week, to stampede the Republicans into a straight resolution for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Wet Brigade threatens to stage demonstrations in Chicago on the eve of the Convention.

EXPERTS TO CONSIDER SOCIAL REFORM.

Sterilisation of Detectives.

London, Yesterday.

The sterilisation of mental defectives is to become the subject of an official enquiry by a Committee of eminent experts, appointed by the Government.

The Committee is to include Mr. Laurence Brock, Chairman of the Board of Control, Dr. Wilfred Trotter, honorary surgeon to the King and a member of the Medical Research Council, Dr. Ronald Fisher, Vice-President of the Eugenics Society and who has spent much time in experiments on heredity, and Miss Ruth Darwin, a grand-daughter of the great evolutionist.

The terms of reference will be, inter alia, to consider the value of sterilisation, having regard to the physical, psychological and social effects.—Reuter.

THE KING'S WOMEN SECRETARIES.

Compensation for Hard Work.

NEVER TALK ABOUT THEIR SECRETS.

Six women who arrive at Buckingham Palace at nine o'clock every weekday morning know more of the secrets of politics and diplomacy than any other women in Britain.

They never talk about their secrets, not even to each other.

They are the secretaries to the King's advisers and the high officials of the Court.

One woman comes every morning across the Park from Piccadilly, one from a women's club in Buckingham Palace-road, and another from Victoria Station.

They type documents that begin with words such as:—

"Secret and confidential: For Cabinet use only."

"Personal and private: For the use of the Prime Minister only."

Every morning at nine they settle down to their desks, in the little offices of the Palace, cheerful with white paint and scarlet carpets.

Night Work.

The business of the day begins with the first ring of a bell summoning one of them to Sir Clive Wigram, the King's secretary. Seven or eight at night often finds them still busy, acknowledging some important Government despatch that has just come in by King's Messenger, or turning some message into code.

They work hard, these Women who Serve the King. In the dark days of his illness, when a common bond of anxiety united every one at Court, they stayed on, night after night, till midnight and after, waiting sometimes with dread in their hearts for the doctors to send down the next bulletin.

They work hard, but there are compensations. Wherever the Court goes, they go too, travelling with the King and Queen in the royal train, to Sandringham, Balmoral, Windsor or Cowes, living in the Castle, with the freedom of the lovely grounds at Sandringham, or the Great Park at Windsor.

COMPENSATION OF FIVE MILLION YEN.
